Celebrate Historic Preservation!

National Historic Preservation Week

The week of May 16 is National Historic Preservation Week and, as in the past, the Schenectady Heritage Foundation and the Urban Cultural Park Agency will present awards to several property owners at a City Hall ceremony at noon, Wednesday the 19th.

Of special interest is the first John L. Zegger Preservation Award sponsored by the Stockade Association. Please come to City Hall to celebrate with your neighbors.

Dedication of the Stockade Gateway Monument Inscriptions

At 5 PM the same day, Mayor Jurczynski and all the individuals who worked so hard on the Stockade Gateway will participate in the dedication of the monument inscriptions.

Our own Jean Zegger, Werner Feibes and Jim Schmitt deserve credit for a job well done.

Heritage Fundraiser

The Schenectady Heritage Foundation cordially invites you to attend a reception in support of the preservation activities of the Foundation immediately following the Dedication of the Stockade Gateway Inscriptions.

Come for hors' d'oeuvres and cash bar at The Van Dyck Restaurant, Wednesday, the nineteenth of May at 6 PM. Donation at the door: $25 per person. Patron: $50 per person. Advance payment: please make checks payable to the Schenectady Heritage Foundation, PO Box 1173, Schenectady, New York 12305. Period Costumes are optional, but encouraged.

Birds of the Stockade

Jamie Taft of Front Street has been interested in birds since childhood when he, his mother, Bess Taft, and his grandmother went on nature walks. He now summers in Provincetown while researching local birds and whales.

In February, Jamie sighted a Northern Goshawk in his garden on Front Street. The Northern Goshawk is the largest of the Accipiters (Latin for "birds of prey") and preys on medium to large birds. The name "goshawk" is derived from the Anglo-Saxon words "gos" for goose and "havoc" for hawk; hence, a hawk that captures geese. Jamie says that he has friends who've almost had Goshawks rake their talons over the friends' heads. You can recognize a Goshawk by its short, rounded wings and long tail.

Jamie tells us that one of the other raptors to keep an eye open for in the Stockade is the Turkey Vulture. This is a large brownish-black raptor that soars and glides with its wings in a strong dihedral. The Bald Eagle also occurs in the area as does the Osprey and maybe even the Peregrine Falcon.

Happy summer birding!

DB & A

What is DB & A and what are they doing in our beloved Stockade?

Dennis Bellone & Associates are an advertising agency and have been located at 249 Green Street for approximately 7 years. Dennis Bellone founded the ad agency 10 years ago. Two years ago he added another company to his portfolio, Interactive. Both do graphics but, Interactive puts out "super-graphics." Dennis states that Interactive recently did a project for RPI. CatTrax did the recording. CatTrax, a separate concern, is also at 249 Green. Dennis owns the building. Presently, Dennis employs 13 in his own agency. For Interactive he sees great potential. He plans on hiring 8 -10 new employees in the near future! He is dedicated to staying put at his present location. He loves the Stockade. He says he has many talented programmers who are mostly natives of Schenectady who prefer to reside here because of their ties to the community. Dennis states that another ad agency - DJ Moore from Albany just moved into his building. Great! Keep moving in and staying here. No one can go wrong with relocating to the Stockade and the city itself, what with recent initiatives regarding economic development and so on.

We live in exciting times while the regrowth and rebirth of our city goes on all around with changes for the better. And with people like Dennis no wonder. By the way, Dennis and his associates are just as excited about the re-opening of Arthur's as every Stockadian is. Perhaps Dennis wouldn't mind if his neighbors stopped in to see one of those "super-graphics." Sounds like a super business. Could MGM studios be far behind to be the next tenant at 249 Green Street?

STOCKADE HISTORY ONCE MORE!

In June expect to see a group of students, adult students that is, walking around the Stockade, listening to their guide, asking questions, and having lunch at Arthur's while they watch the Dutch Dancers perform.

This event is part of a SUNY Empire State College Summer Residency: THE SCHENECTADY STOCKADE: FROM FRONTIER VILLAGE TO ELECTRIC CITY. It is an intensive two day undergraduate credit bearing study, and will be held at ESC's local offices in the old American Red Cross building next door to the Civic Playhouse.

Prior to, and following the residency, the students will study colonial history of the area, the Yates family, architectural and historical landmarks of the Stockade, and the growth from Canal Town to the Home of General Electric. Professors from the College and some of the local residents will conduct the seminars.

Stockade residents are invited to an Open House, scheduled for Friday, June 11, 1999 at 5:00 pm, and to watch the Dutch Dancers perform outside Arthur's on Saturday, June 12 at noon.

We look forward to meeting some of you in this little island of antiquity and friendship - the Stockade.

For further information, call the ESC office, 346-5165.

People of the Stockade

The Stockade has played host to many historical and influential people, so its not surprising that a modern day "Shirley Temple" might find herself living here also, on the banks of the Binnekill. Some Stockaders already know the Hirshes, particularly young Hallee Hirsh, an 11 year old actress whose recent film credits for 1998 include "One True Thing" with Meryl Streep and William Hurt and the new Meg Ryan/Tom Hanks comedy "You've Got Mail." For those of us who do know her, its enjoyable to have the opportunity to watch her grow as an actress and as a very personable young lady.

While some her age would be off at nursery school, Hallee began her acting career at 3 years old, doing commercials for national corporations. Eventually her natural talent led to a long-playing role in the soap opera "Loving." This past November she starred with Blythe Danner and Mary-Louise Parker in the Hallmark Hall of Fame presentation, "St. Maybe," a role in which she clearly demonstrates that she can create a character, and not simply appear as a child acting as a child. Hallee, like any true artist, expects the most of herself and readily confides that, "this performance was not my best work." Most everyone is familiar with Bill Cosby and his Jello commercials; so the next time you see that one in which he asks, "Who made that?" that little girl who says, "I did!" is Hallee. Recently Hallee made a guest appearance on the new comedy hit series "Lateline," and if you missed that episode on gun control, catch it during summer re-runs or check with Hallee's mother.

Debbie Hirsh is a Navy captain and Stockade resident who is serving a command in upstate New York, the closest post she was able to assume to be near her permanent home in New York City with her husband, Mike, son Greg and daughter Hallee. Depending on the season, the family gathers here in the Stockade to relax, refresh, and to enjoy the sounds of the river, the wildlife, those misty mornings and incredible sunsets. Hallee, a movie premiere vet, is left with a vivid impression of this area; especially the Walkabout, the sidewalk sales, the fireworks, the Canada geese goslings, and her special treehouse that looks out over the Mohawk.

Even with all this activity, Hallee maintains a straight A average and when on set, continues her studies with a tutor. This little lady has a clear impression of who she is and during a recent television interview in New York, she spoke seriously about how "emotional" she is as well as some of the ups and downs of being an actress. Hallee is one of the top five child actresses in the country, seeking only to better her last appearance and evolving into a wonderful stage performer.

Continuing to stay on top, she stars with Ned Beatty in another feature filmed on location in Buffalo, and most recently with Stanley Tucci in his new film, all due out later this year. She is currently being courted by producers for a new television comedy series, and by Broadway, working with one of the queens of comedy, Miss Carol Burnett. Normal family life? Yes! Loving the Stockade?

Yes! Living her own personal dream? Absolutely!

- Karen Mahoney

Zegger Memorial Fund: A Periodic Report: May 1999

The day after John died, Greg Sauer, who is a fellow member of the Schenectady Heritage Foundation Board, and I visited John's wife, Jean, and their family. We talked about the projects in the Stockade that John was working on so effectively in partnership with the Heritage Board. Paramount among them was the expansion of the Stockade Gateway, namely that triangle of land formerly the Ladd property. It was John's dream that it become a landscaped parking park, and along with that, the restoration of the Dr. Elizabeth Gillette house on the corner of College and Union Streets.

Dr. Gillette was a dynamic woman in her lifetime, the first upstate woman elected to the New York State Assembly and one of Schenectady's early woman surgeons.

John felt that if these two projects could be realized, the Gateway Project would reach its fullest glory.

The idea then developed of establishing a memorial fund in John's name to financially help these projects to realization. In effect to carry on his work.

Jean and the children were touched and endorsed the idea.

This is a segregated fund in the Heritage Foundation asset account and will be used only for physical improvements in the Stockade.

In the past five years nearly $150,000 has passed through the Heritage Foundation Fund in the support of our mission to preserve and revitalize the livability of our historic districts.

Major funding has supported:

- Realty Plot legal defense against the zoning challenge

- Grant for recycling and renovation of the old Green Street laundry.
- Grant for the Historical Society facade restoration
- Grant for the 1987 restoration of the Indian monument
- Grant for the publication of the Stockade Signs and Surface Survey
- Funding for the current lecture series: "Livable Cities: Building from Strengths"
- Funding each May to stage the Historic Preservation Week in Schenectady and of course sponsoring the Stockade Gateway Project where public fund raising amounted to $138,000 toward the total cost of $384,000.

To date 60 donors have contributed over $10,300 to the John Zegger Memorial Fund. Your gift will be greatly appreciated as we work to preserve and revitalize the livability of our historic neighborhoods.

STOCKADE STOPPER

STOCKADE

Many say that a rose by any other name would smell the same.

Few would say that the Stockade by any of its other names would be the same.

The present inhabitants of this, New York State's first Historic District, don't bother to reflect upon this designation as being exceptional. And yet, not so long ago, in the 1940's, it was known as "the village" and before that, in the 1920's as simply "Downtown." Way back when the Colonies became a nation, it was probably just "Schenectady," for at that time it was the seat of government, both city and county, it was the center of industry, both broom and ship building. And, way, way back before the revolution it was the "Schenectady Fortification:" the tiny settlement enclosed by a wooden fence or stockade.

A few years after settling here in 1661 the Dutch erected a ring of stout timbers set firmly into the earth in contact with each other thus forming the barrier or defense fortification. This first timber stockade fence encircled the tiny settlement and ran roughly along the route which is now known as Ferry Street, Front Street, Washington Avenue and Union Street. Now a fence is probably the most ambiguous construction invented by man because its purpose is never entirely clear. Sometimes fences are built to keep things in and sometimes they are built to keep things out. Well in this case the intent was unquestionably to keep things out, the enemy French and Indians that is. But it failed. It failed because the gates were left open and unguarded. Setting snowmen at the gates to guard their sleep, the settlers were massacred and the outpost burned.

The second stockade was completed around 1703 and was a larger ring: Ferry Street to the river, and along the river to the Binne Kill, along the Binne Kill to State Street and along State Street to Ferry. The third stockade pushed the east boundary out to College Street and enclosed just about what we now call "the Stockade."

So when did we start calling it "the Stockade?" It was in the late 1950's when a few "Villagers" got together and decided that the term "Village" was an over-used designation like Greenwich Village or "the Village" in New York City. To be distinctive we adopted the colloquial term "Stockade." We started the Stockade Association and the Stockade Spy and lo and behold we were "Stockaders" living in "the Stockade."

Some know for certain that the stockade fence still encircles us. And we are left wondering who we are fencing in or who we are fencing out.
